City considers water/sewer rate increase

By Larry Rowell
Editor

Liberty City Council wants to hear from residents concerning a proposed rate increase in water and sewer rates. And, to that end, the council isn't going to take action on the increase until next month's meeting on May 11.

"They're going to go up. We just have to determine how much it's going up," said Mayor Steven Brown in Monday's regularly scheduled meeting.

Brown told the council that the increase would be used to help fund the new sewer plant, which the state said must be upgraded by December 2017. Other funding will come from grants and loans.

Brown said he urges Liberty residents to contact himself, council members, or come to the May 11 meeting to voice their opinion about the increase.

Nuisance complaint

Susan Galloway, of 436 Whipp Avenue, told council members that the lot at 420 Whipp Avenue is overgrown again.

According to records in the PVA office, the lot belongs to Sharon Mason.

This isn't the first time Galloway has complained about the lot.

Mason was mailed a letter from the city on Sept. 11, 2014 telling her she was in violation of the city's nuisance ordinance, giving her five days to mow the weeds to avoid a citation.

The ordinance states that should the property owner not mow the weeds within the five day period, the city then has the right to mow the property and bill the owner for the cost of materials and labor. The property owner then has 30 days to pay the city.

If the bill isn't paid, the city can place a lien on the property for the costs it incurred in cleaning the property.

Brown told Galloway he would contact the zoning and code enforcement officer about the matter.

Loyalty Day Parade

Claud Wyatt, from VFW Post 5704, said that plans were coming along for the Saturday, April 25 Loyalty Day parade.

"Loyalty Day parades goes back to reaffirming your loyalty to the United States of America. In 1958, President Dwight D. Eisenhower had Congress to make Loyalty Day a holiday on May 1. Most communities don't observe Loyalty Day," he said.

The parade, which starts at 10 a.m. on Randolph Street, will include fire departments, motorcycles, the state color guard as well as the VFW State Commander. It ends at Liberty Veteran's Park, where Rep. Mike Harmon will deliver a short speech.

Sidewalks

Tommie Allen, Director of the Casey County Senior Citizen's Center, expressed her concern to the council about the condition of Liberty's sidewalks, especially on Hustonville Street from roughly Bartle Funeral

'We can't stand another one of these'

Liberty Mayor Steven Brown uttered the words that many people who gathered along the bypass were feeling, recalling when the majority of the businesses along Wallace Wilkinson Boulevard were destroyed by flooding in May 2010. On Tuesday, Green River began overflowing its banks, spilling water onto East Ky. 70 in the late morning hours, flooding Gateway Park. By 3 p.m., city officials had closed the bypass between Middleburg Street and running north to Hustonville Street and the bypass. Casey County Judge-Executive Randy Dial declared a state of emergency just after noon. See next week's edition for updates and photos on the flooding around the county.

Johnson countersues Skipper sisters

By Larry Rowell
Editor

Michael Johnson, facing a $3 million lawsuit from the daughters of his late live-in girlfriend, has filed a countersuit against the sisters, alleging that their suit means "to harass and annoy" Johnson.

Johnson's suit also asks that the sisters' attorneys — Theodore Lavit and Cameron Griffith — be sanctioned and made to pay his legal expenses, for filing the suit "not grounded in fact" or "warranted by existing law," Johnson's counterclaim states.

Background

Sierra N. Skipper and Hubert Preston Skipper III, as the father and guardian of Savannah Skipper, allege a "wrongful death claim" against Johnson in the March 18, 2014 death of Margaret Leah Skipper, who died of a single gunshot wound to the head. Leah was Sierra and Savannah's mother.

Ruled a suicide by then Casey County Coroner Tommy Clark, the Skipper sisters questioned Clark's ruling, and claimed that Clark refused their requests for an autopsy.

The sisters are suing Clark for $5 million, saying he wasn't "certified" and therefore not a qualified coroner, due to not attending in-service training required by Kentucky law. (See related story).

Johnson's answer

In his answer to Skipper's suit, Lebanon attorney Elmer George, along with Louisville attorney C. Thomas Hectus, state that the Skippers' lawsuit should be barred because the Skippers' "injuries and damages, if any, were solely caused by the acts and omissions of the decedent, Margaret Leah Skipper, in failing to exercise reasonable or ordinary care for her own safety."

An additional defense cited is the Skippers' claim for monetary damages should be barred because it would "compensate them for damages not actually incurred."

Further, any "punitive damage award that is grossly excessive would further no legitimate purpose and would constitute an arbitrary deprivation of property," Johnson's answer states, among 14 other defenses offered.

Countersuit

Johnson's countersuit states that when the Skippers' filed their suit against him, they were aware that he was not responsible for Leah's death.

"Plaintiffs (the Skipper sisters) knew or should have known that the decedent, Margaret Leah Skipper, committed suicide, and plaintiffs have no credible evidence to the contrary."

A Casey County grand jury refused to indict Johnson in February concerning Skipper's death, citing a lack of evidence.

Also, Johnson claims that the suit was filed "to harass and annoy" him, "subject him to ridicule, and to bring pressure on the defendant (Johnson) to settle a claim for which there is no factual or legal basis."

Additionally, Johnson's claim states that the Skippers "have engaged in a course of conduct that was reckless, outrageous, and intolerable in a civilized society."

Relief

Johnson is seeking the dismissal of the Skippers' suit, attorneys' fees and costs, compensatory and punitive damages, a trial by jury, and a post-judgment hearing and ruling on Johnson's request for sanctions against the Skippers' attorneys.

A call to George for comment wasn't returned. Griffith declined to comment on Johnson's countersuit.

Lincoln man
found dead in Casey
County

By Larry Rowell
Editor

A Lincoln County man wanted on charges there was found dead on Friday just after noon on a couch in a residence on Lee Graham Road in Casey County, said Casey County Coroner Curt Demrow.

Demrow said that he couldn't comment on the cause of 36-year-old James Blakey's death, pending autopsy results.

According to Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger, officers tried to arrest Blakey for violating his parole twice in past weeks but each time he eluded officers.

"He was known to do whatever he could to elude police," Folger said.

According to court records in Casey County, Blakey was arrested for DUI in 2000, violating an EPO in 2003, and first-degree criminal trespass in 2001.

Concerning Lincoln County, Blakey was released on parole from prison last fall after having been sentenced to prison for five years for theft by unlawful taking more than $500 and second-degree unlawful transaction with a minor.

Clark's attorneys in lawsuit seeking transfer to federal court

By Larry Rowell
Editor

In a multi-million dollar lawsuit against former Casey County Coroner Tommy Clark, attorneys for Clark are seeking to have the case moved from Casey County Circuit Court to United States District Court in Bowling Green. Along with the motion seeking the transfer, a second motion was filed to dismiss the suit.

Sierra N. Skipper, along with her minor sister, Savannah Skipper, represented by her father, Hubert Preston Skipper III, are asking for $5 million in a suit in which they claim that Clark was not qualified to conduct a post-mortem investigation and issue a ruling as to the cause of death as a coroner, an office he held for four terms, before losing the seat in the November 2014 General Election.

The lawsuit further states that Clark wasn't certified to perform his duties as a coroner due to not attending annual in-service training required by Kentucky law.

Clark ruled the March

18, 2014 death of Margaret Leah Skipper, Sierra's and Savannah's mother, a suicide, after examining her at the residence of Michael Johnson, the man with whom she had lived for more than a decade. Skipper died of a single gunshot wound to the head.

A Casey County grand jury failed to indict Johnson in February in the death of Skipper, citing a lack of evidence. The Skipper sisters are seeking $3 million in damages in a wrongful death suit against Johnson.

Clark, represented by Bowling Green attorney Aaron Smith, and Lexington attorney Luke Morgan, is asking his case be transferred to U.S. District Court based on the claims made in the Skippers' suit.

"The plaintiffs (the Skipper sisters) claim that Mr. Clark had violated the deceased's 14th Amendment rights under the U.S. Constitution. They made a due process and equal protection claim — federal issues — creating jurisdiction in the federal courts," said Smith.

The Skippers' suit

claims that their mother's 14th Amendment rights of due process were violated when Clark "failed to follow the statutory protocol for post-mortem examinations and autopsies to determine the appropriate cause of death."

The Skippers also alleged that Clark brushed aside their requests for an autopsy.

Concerning the equal protection claim, the suit states that Leah Skipper's rights were violated because she was treated differently.

City council, fiscal court showing support

With a new Liberty City Council and Casey County Fiscal Court, with the exception of incumbent magistrates Kenny Morgan and Jamey Maupin, and Liberty City Councilman Brian Beeler, these government leaders are doing something that hasn't been done in years — attending each other's meetings.

At Monday's city council meeting, Judge-Executive Randy Dial and Magistrate Robby Murphy were in attendance.

Mayor Steven Brown has begun his political career by attending fiscal court meetings.

With Dial and Brown attending city council and fiscal court meetings, respectively, they're lending their support and occasional comments to the proceedings.

And, as Brown said after Monday's city council meeting, he's known Dial since they were 7 and "we've always gotten along."

We applaud this show of solidarity between these governmental agencies as a sign of genial cooperation and interest.

It can only show Casey Countians that these newly elected leaders are seeking good for the entire county.

Now, we are in no way criticizing our former mayor or county judge, who had a marvelous working relationship for the 16 years they were both in office.

But it was rare to see city officials at a regular fiscal court meeting and vice versa.

These are challenging days for Casey County.

With the completion of the new college scheduled for May 3, the city needing a new waste water treatment plant, trying to attract jobs to the county, and revitalizing the downtown area, there'll be a need for all hands on deck to tackle these issues.

We think it's worth urging these elected officials to attend each other's meetings.

Bravo to those elected government officials for their taking the time to support one another.

Don't Botox me

I am afraid all my knowledge of modern-day medicine comes from watching commercials on television. Love your laxative, get rid of the brown spots on your face in two weeks, dose your kids with this medicine when they are sneezing and snorting, get this bed with the tilting head to prevent your husband from snoring, take two of these pills instead of six of the other one if you're in pain, get rid of nail fungus with this product, and on and on and on.

All this brings me to Botox. Yeah, Botox. I still can't get over this stuff being used for everything. For heaven's sake, it is a toxin from the bacterium Clostridium botulinum. This is the stuff you want to avoid when you are doing your home canning. Use proper canning techniques or you could kill yourself and your family members.

Botox is the purified toxin from this bacterium. Purified? What does that mean? I don't know but I do know it paralyzes certain muscles when it is injected. It scares me to death but it is supposed to be the answer to many medical problems — or so they say.

It started out as an answer to facial wrinkles. Oh, yes, we have all seen the actors and actresses (and maybe some of our friends) who can't raise their eyebrows and who can't smile or move their mouths. A word of warning: summer will soon be here and class reunions will be held everywhere. If you see one of your former classmates who looks like his or her face has been frozen, chances are good Botox is the reason. By doggies, they won't have any wrinkles, though.

WELLS

More recently Botox has been used to treat severe migraines, or so the commercials say. One thing that worries me is that you get many injections at the same time and the treatment is not permanent. Where do they inject it? I need to do some research. I have visions of everything on my whole head becoming paralyzed. The commercials say that the Botox could migrate. Migrate? Where does it migrate? I don't want something that paralyzes muscles migrating to muscles I really need like my heart.

I just saw a commercial for Botox. It will calm my overactive bladder. The side effects and reactions to it, including that migration thing again, are worse to me than not calming my overactive bladder. Can you say Depends?

I Googled Botox and found it is also used to treat crossed eyes, "gummy" smiles (where you see lots of gum above the teeth), and severe underarm sweating. Other than the crossed eyes, which can be cured by other means, I think I would just choose to live with wet armpits and a smile with more gum than teeth showing. Botox is not a hoot to me!

Parents need to talk to teens about drinking

Larry
ROWELL
Editor

I've seen several instances lately where teen drinking has gotten totally out of hand. And no where more so than during spring break at Panama City Beach, Fla.

Bay County Sheriff Frank McKeithen said that the drinking, coupled with drugs, and guns, has gotten to where the beaches are unsafe because of all these goings-ons.

The sheriff held an emotional press conference on Friday where he described an incident which occurred last month during daylight hours on the beach.

Calling it "probably one of the most disgusting, repulsive, sickening things I've seen this year on Panama City Beach, and I've seen a lot of them," McKeithen went on to describe how several men committed sexual battery against a young woman on the beach, during the day. Not at night, under the cover of darkness. IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

But what's even more sickening about this is what the sheriff said next. "This is happening in broad daylight," McKeithen said. "Within 10 feet of where this is happening there are hundreds of people standing there watching, looking, seeing, hearing what's going on, and yet our culture and our society and our young people have got to the point where this is acceptable somewhere."

McKeithen went on to say that the onlookers were more concerned about spilling their beer than helping the young woman.

Two Troy State University students have been charged in the incident where the sheriff said the young woman was incapacitated, either through alcohol or drugs.

What really troubles me is not the men who allegedly did this, it's the fact that this young lady is now scarred for life.

There will never be a day when this horrible act won't come back to haunt her. Also, she'll likely have to face these two young men in court, which will be a hellish experience on top of what she's already gone through.

While some parents shake their heads in wonderment and sadness, it's time that parents quit thinking it won't happen to their kids. It can.

Other parents accept teen drinking as a "rite of passage," or laugh it off saying, "I did it and I turned out all right."

If that's the way you want to parent, then there will be consequences to that kind of thinking. For the teens, it more or less endorses that drinking is OK, and after all, if mom and dad got away with drinking when they were teens, then we can to.

I visited Panama City Beach with my son in March 2014. I had not been to this beach in more than 20 years and what I witnessed was shocking.

Kids were staggering down the streets in beach attire, and I do mean staggering, swaying from side-to-side, at 9 a.m., drunk out of their minds. One young man fell, or dove, off a hotel balcony.

Law enforcement officers were everywhere, stopping cars, frisking the kids, setting up roadblocks and looking in cars, completely overwhelmed by the sheer number of kids.

It would have taken calling out the Florida National Guard to assist law officers there were so many kids on that beach, literally tens of thousands.

You may feel this was an extreme example and if you do, I invite you to watch the sheriff's press conference on the Internet.

Bottom line — talk to your kids about drinking, even if they are in elementary school. Underage drinking is illegal, unhealthy, and dangerous.

Also, with prom and graduation fast approaching, it's another reason to talk about the consequences of underage drinking, especially coupled with driving.

If you think it won't happen to your kids, just ask the parents of the woman sexually battered on that beach.

Like other issues that parents face with kids, this is probably among the most important.

So take the time and talk to them about this. It could save a life.

Higdon addresses teacher retirement funding

Jimmy
HIGDON
State
Senator

As things have seemingly calmed down after the end of the 2015 Legislative Session in Frankfort, I would like to once again address the KTRS issue by reassuring all teachers that we are committed to finding a solution.

Conversations already have started in order to prepare a bill for the 2016 Legislative Session. Reports from KTRS inform us that even if nothing is done, the fund will remain solvent for the next 21 years. I assure you that something will be done soon to ensure that this system is sustainable for generations to come.

I have received numerous messages from many concerned retired teachers. I recognize your concern and understand that it makes several active and retired teachers downright angry.

I understand where you are coming from, but teachers have been made a promise and that promise is backed up by the full faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

So, let me also take this opportunity to address a few misconceptions:

liability was due to underfunding by the Legislature. What about the other 80 percent? One major factor, among others, is the fact that we all are living longer. When these funds were set up, the average life expectancy for a male was around 62. That is number is well into the 70s in today's world. While a longer life expectancy is a good thing for Kentuckians, it takes a toll on retirement funds.

Another thing to consider is that when these funds were set up, insurance was not a factor. Today, insurance and cost of living adjustments make up a significant part of the unfunded liability.

Spiking is another factor that contributes to the problem. Over the years the legislature has made it very easy for most to enhance their retirement benefits.

I told every teacher and retired teacher that asked me to support the bonding in HB 4 that I would support bonding at some level but that the plan must be changed going forward for new hires.

We must quit digging and come up with a plan that is sustainable.

I do not advocate for a defined contribution plan. I understand teachers do not participate in Social Security, so it is my personal view that any plan must be a defined benefit.

Thanks to all teachers in my district and across the Commonwealth. I do value your service and I assure you that we are committed to finding a real solution to the shortfalls of KTRS.

Please feel free to contact me to discuss this issue and understand I am happy to meet and discuss this matter personally anytime. In closing, I reached out to KTRS, KEA, JCTA and KRTA the very day session ended in order to illustrate my commitment to working on this important issue.

Senator Jimmy Higdon (R-Lebanon) represents the 14th District including Casey, Marion, Nelson and Spencer counties, as well as part of Jefferson County. He is the Majority Whip and a member of the Economic Development and Labor, Education, Health and Welfare, Licensing and Occupations, and Transportation Committees.

Three GOP candidates in state treasurer race

Allison Ball, Kenny Imes, Jon Larson

By Linda Ireland

Editor

The LaRue Co. Herald News

Eight candidates — five Democrats and three Republicans — are running for state treasurer in the May 19 primary. This article introduces the three Republicans — Allison Ball, Kenny Imes and Jon Larson.

Democratic primary candidates are Neville Blakemore, Jim Glenn, Daniel Grossberg, Richard Henderson and Rick Nelson.

The Kentucky Treasurer election will take place on Nov. 3, 2015.

In March, 13 state office seekers attended the LaRue County Republican Party's chili supper.

Jon Larson (R-Lexington) was unique among the candidates. He wants to abolish the office he is running for.

LARSON

Larson said the state treasurer office is an "insignificant overpaid job with no real power."

If he is elected, Larson said he would lobby the General Assembly to pass a constitutional amendment moving the duties of the office to the Finance and Administration Cabinet. Abolishing the office is "not a new idea," he said. "Last year (House Speaker) Greg Stumbo said it's an antiquated office."

The proposal to abolish the job (Senate Bill 58) spurred Treasurer Todd Hollenbach, a Democrat, to fire back:

"The sponsors of this legislation espouse alleged benefits to the abolishment of the treasury based on claims that were pulled out of thin air and other nether regions of non-existence."

Hollenbach, who is ineligible for re-election due to term limits, said abolishing the office "will not save any money as all of treasury's jobs will still have to be performed and all of the equipment maintained."

The treasurer manages the state's depository, makes records of all monies due and payable to the state, oversees the Unclaimed Property Division, processes warrants from the Finance and Administration Cabinet, makes payments on behalf of the state and files an annual report on all state money.

If he's not elected, any other candidate will cost taxpayers $1.4 million every year they are in office, Larson said. He did not say whether he plans to accept a salary if he's elected.

The office of state treasurer pays $115,594 a year — the same as received by the lieutenant governor, attorney general, agriculture commissioner and secretary of state. The governor earns $135,970.

Larson is a former Fayette County judge-executive of four years, a position he also tried to abolish, and a veteran of the Vietnam War. He has been a self-employed criminal defense attorney for 30 years, according to his website.

He earned a law degree at the University of Kentucky and a master's degree in business management from George Washington University (Former U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell was a classmate).

Kenneth Imes

Kenneth Churchill Imes (R-Murray) has represented District 5 (Trigg and Calloway counties) for six terms. One four-year term in the 1970s was served as a Democrat.

IMES

He has been a funeral director for 50 years.

His years of employment began when he was 7 and his parents told him to "get out and mow the yard," he said. He used a "real mower."

Since then, he has operated seven successful businesses including Imes Funeral Home and a farm. He feels qualified to lead the treasurer's office of about 24 employees. He is a former deputy secretary and commissioner of the Natural Resources Cabinet.

Imes said the treasurer's office serves as a watchdog of public spending. If elected, he would call for an audit and work on improving Kentucky's Employee Retirement System.

According to his website, he hopes his campaign will give western Kentucky a stronger presence in state government.

He is a graduate of Murray State University. He and his wife, Mary Beth, have three children, Molly, John and Matt.

Allison Ball

Allison Ball (R-Prestonsburg) wants to become the first Republican woman to hold the office of treasurer.

She received a law degree from the University of Kentucky and is a practicing attorney with Vanover, Hall and Bartley.

BALL

Ball said she wants to improve the treasurer's watchdog role — focusing on fiscal responsibility and transparency.

Ball said her interest in politics could be traced to a decision her parents made when she was 9.

They took away her allowance because it was "teaching her socialism."

She pouted. They were serious.

Ball reasoned that she would have to earn her own money and started "Positive Pencils International," selling pencils for 25 cents each. She earned $200 and decided her parents — staunch believers in free enterprise — were "right."

They later took her to hear a speech by former President Ronald Reagan, who became one of her heroes.

Ball has a narrow lead over Imes and Larson in her race, according to a poll conducted by Triumph Campaigns.

NEWS BRIEFS

Phillips appointed to PVA appeals board

Casey County Fiscal Court magistrates appointed Mitchell Phillips on April 6 to a three-year term on the Local Board of Assessment Appeals. Phillips replaces Johnny Beard Jr., who rotated off the board. In other business, magistrates:

■ Received two checks from Sheriff Jerry Coffman for excess fees — $53,983.68 and $43.55.

■ Moved to rescind changing the name of Rough Ridge Spur to Shiny Luttrell Road. No public hearing was held.

■ Accepted a $2,200 bid from Barry Johnson on a surplus white tandem axle dump truck. The court also rejected a $250 bid for a Caterpillar fork lift, a $375 bid on a 1969 Ford tanker, a $3,600 bid on an asphalt spreader, and a $650 bid on a single axle dump truck.

■ Received Jailer Tommy Miller's proposed budget for the Casey County Detention Center for FY 2015-16 in the amount of $3.5 million.

Green Co. teacher surrenders at Taylor Co. Detention Center

Central Kentucky News Journal

A math teacher accused of inappropriate contact with a student at Green County High School turned himself in at the Taylor County Detention Center on April 8.

Thomas Williams, 27, of Russell Springs, was charged with three counts of first-degree sexual abuse, according to a report by Detective Clint Walker of the Kentucky State Police.

Amid allegations of inappropriate contact with a student, KSP Post 15 detectives started an investigation in March, which culminated in KSP Trooper Jeremy Baker serving an indictment warrant on Williams, the report said. It also indicated that he turned himself in at approximately 4:20 p.m.

Williams was released on a $5,000 cash bond, according to the Taylor County Detention Center.

Kentucky Revised Statutes state that first-degree sexual abuse is a Class D felony, which carries a possible sentence of 1 to 5 years, unless the victim is less than 12 years of age, in which case it is a Class C felony, which carries a sentence of 5 to 10 years.

Williams started working as a math teacher at Green County High School last August, but is currently under suspension there.

Attorney general announces guilty plea

Kentucky Press News Service

Attorney General Jack Conway recently announced the plea of guilty and sentencing of former Kentucky State Rep. Forrest "Ben" Waide, of Madisonville, for violations of Kentucky campaign finance laws.

In Franklin Circuit Court, Waide pleaded guilty to Attempting to Accept Illegal Campaign Contributions and Attempted Unlawful Campaign Expenditures. Waide received a 12 month jail sentence, which will be probated and supervised for two years. Waide, who served as a state representative from 2010 to 2014, has agreed to pay restitution to Liberty Rehabilitation and others in the amount of $7,754.12.

After being indicted, Waide reimbursed Liberty Rehabilitation $7,566.24 bringing the total restitution amount to $15,320.36. Waide's crimes relate to his 2010 campaign for state representative and the results of an investigation conducted by Conway's Department of Criminal Investigations

The investigation was conducted in response to a January 2014 complaint filed with the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance (KREF) by shareholders of Liberty Rehabilitation, PSC.

Waide illegally accepted campaign contributions from Liberty Rehabilitation, a company in Madisonville where he was a partner. Waide also used campaign funds for illegal expenditures. Waide sought personal reimbursements for campaign advertising expenses that were either nonexistent or paid for by Liberty Rehabilitation.

John C. Whitfield, counsel for Liberty Rehabilitation, said, "our position all along has been that Mr. Waide needs to accept responsibility for his actions and make amends. That process formally began today in Franklin Circuit Court. We appreciate the hard work and dedication of the Office of the Attorney General."

Hardin school district starting substance abuse program

The News Enterprise

Our Lady of Peace, a private, non-profit psychiatric hospital in Louisville, recently approached Hardin County Schools about a unique recovery opportunity for students with the risk of substance abuse or relapse. Our Lady of Peace received a special grant for the program and along with having a program for student recovery available in Hardin, Meade and Bullitt counties also will have something similar. Family resource centers at the schools will identify the at-risk students then OLOP tests them.

The components of the program includes group therapy, seven different challenges, family consultation and family therapy if requested, psychiatric medication evaluation if needed, weekly random urine drug screens and voluntary and individualized programming

Discussion topics include drug use and the brain, developmental challenges, why adolescents make the choice to use alcohol and other drugs, coping with challenges, stages of change and getting support. Those in the county up to 21 years old facing issues with alcohol, drug or substance abuse may attend.

"When students are deemed at-risk, OLOP will come out and do an assessment and when they have an assessment and they qualify as increased risk of going back to abusing if a stressful situation occurs, they will enter them into the outpatient program," King said.

Tips to help prevent type 2 diabetes

If you have a family history of diabetes, or you've been told by a health care professional that you're at risk for type 2 diabetes, it's important to take steps now to reduce your risk. Studies show that people at high risk for type 2 diabetes can prevent or delay the onset of the disease if they lose as little as 10 pounds — by walking 30 minutes a day, five days a week and making healthy food choices. A healthy diet doesn't have to be expensive. Start by planning meals and making a grocery list ahead of time to take charge of what you eat. Follow these tips from the National Diabetes Education Program (NDEP) while grocery shopping to help you and your entire family make healthy food choices:

■ Don't go to the store hungry. You may buy food you don't need.

■ Read and compare food labels. Choose foods that are lower in saturated fats, trans fats, cholesterol, sodium (salt), and added sugars. Check the serving size and the number of servings. Food labels are based on one serving, but many packages contain more. When you compare calories and nutrients between brands, check to see if the serving size is the same.

■ Focus on fruits, vary vegetables. Buy a variety of frozen, canned, or in-season fresh fruits such as melons, berries, and oranges rather than fruit juice for most of your fruit choices. Choose fruit without added sugar or syrup. Buy in-season, leafy dark green vegetables such as broccoli and spinach, and orange vegetables such as carrots or squash. Choose vegetables without added salt, butter, or sauces.

■ Look for calcium-rich foods. Buy low-fat or skim milk instead of whole milk. If you can't drink milk, choose fat-free or low-fat lactose-reduced milk or try calcium-rich leafy green vegetables such as kale or collard greens.

■ Make your grains whole. Buy whole wheat bread, crackers, cereals, brown rice, oatmeal, and barley.

■ Go lean with protein. Buy lean meats. For poultry, remove the skin before cooking. Vary your protein choices with more fish, nuts, seeds, beans and peas such as pinto beans and split peas.

For more information about diabetes, diabetes classes, or our new Diabetes Prevention Program call the Casey County Health Department and ask to speak to the diabetes educator.

Golden age of American music comes to Danville

The Advocate-Messenger

Big bands and their iconic sound are a signature element of American music, and this summer, during the Great American Brass Band Festival, listeners can enjoy one of the best touring big bands in the country: the Airmen of Note.

The premier jazz ensemble of the United States Air Force, Airmen of Note follows in the footsteps of Major Glen Miller's Army Air Corps dance band. The group was founded in 1950 and has been bringing classic big band jazz to audiences across the nation and around the globe ever since.

"We are absolutely thrilled to be hosting Airmen of Note for this year's festival," said Niki Kinkade, executive director of the Great American Brass Band Festival. "They are the best in the business, and bring to life the unique sounds and style of days gone by. They are the true embodiment of this year's festival theme: Brass in American Jazz."

The festival runs June 4-7. Airmen of Note will perform during Saturday's festival picnic and concert on the lawn of Centre College. They will join a star-studded lineup of brass and jazz bands from across the country that have all gathered to pay tribute to an iconic American sound.

"Our lineup of bands playing throughout the entire weekend brings to life the world of American jazz," Kinkade said. "It's exciting to showcase that through our festival, since brass music is such a huge part of what gives jazz its iconic sound."

Jailer hopes to start road clean up challenge

The Lebanon Enterprise

It's not uncommon to see inmates from the Marion County Detention Center picking up litter along the roadsides, but some people might have thought they were seeing things last week when they saw Jailer Barry Brady picking up trash in the St. Joe area. Brady and his wife, Lisa, picked up 11 bags of trash along just one mile of county road in St. Joe on March 31. And, he's challenged his 54-member staff at the jail to do the same as a part of the "Marion County Detention Center employee road clean up challenge."

"We've challenged every one of our employees to pick up trash on one mile of road in the county," Brady said. "I'm just trying to keep my staff focused. That's what we do. We pay back. It's our community. They are our roads.

It's our responsibility, so we step up." Brady said the jail's inmates will continue picking up trash along the roadsides

Murphy receives Employee of the Month Award

Lee Murphy of Liberty was selected as "Employee of the Month" for March 2015 at Northpoint Training Center in Boyle County. Murphy began his employment at Northpoint Training Center in July 2012 as a Postal Technician II. He was selected as "Employee of the Month" based on his outstanding job performance.

Murphy received a letter of commendation and was assigned a reserved parking space for the month.

There is surely a future hope for you, and your hope will not be cut off.

But of the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you. For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness.

Tips to reduce spring allergy symptoms

With the long, hard winter finally behind us, the full bloom of spring may come in a shorter period of time. That means the unwelcome discomfort of seasonal eye allergies could hit all at once as well.

The green grass and yellow flowers often lead to the red of allergy sufferers' bloodshot eyes. Other spring allergy symptoms include swollen eyelids, dry eye, or itchy, watery eyes.

According to the Kentucky Optometric Association (KOA), irritation occurs when the eye comes in contact with pollen, dander, smog and mold. The body's immune response includes the release of the chemical histamine, which causes the redness, burning and itching associated with eye allergies.

KOA offers these tips to help reduce the discomfort of seasonal eye allergies:

Maintain a healthy diet: Foods rich in anti-oxidants, including spinach, kale, broccoli, carrots and red peppers, help improve the immune system and combat the symptoms of eye allergies.

Use preservative-free lubricating eye drops: Although antihistamines can help with typical symptoms like runny noses and sneezing, doctors of optometry warn those medications can make eye symptoms worse by reducing tear quality and quantity.

KOA recommends using preservative-free eye drops or, if you wear contact lenses, rewetting drops.

Apply a cold compress: This will provide quick, temporary relief from itching and redness by constricting the blood vessels that are releasing histamine in the eyes.

Take fish oil supplements: Omega-3 fish oil also has anti-inflammatory properties that can help reduce redness and irritation.

Other tips include not touching or rubbing your eyes; washing your hands often with soap and water; and washing bed linens and pillowcases in hot water and detergent to reduce allergens.

Rebs pick up two wins in Florida, drop first game back

By Quincy Burt
Sports Correspondent

Casey County Baseball represented Liberty well during a trip to the Sunshine State this past week. The Rebels knocked off a pair of Kentucky teams at the Panama City Beach Bash with a 7-run win over Cordia, and a late-inning classic victory versus Bullitt Central.

According to Casey County Skipper Greg Hammond, a tough, rain-shortened loss at Somerset in the first game back home didn't dampen the momentum.

"This was a wonderful trip," Hammond said. "I was proud of them. I think they will build on it. It gave us a chance to bond as a team. I can tell they are a lot closer now."

The Cordia win on Thursday saw a focused squad of Rebels playing with confidence because of who started on the rubber in the Florida sunshine.

"(Jonathan) Gillock pitched another fabulous game," Hammond said. "Matt Sharp came in and finished it off. We were really focused that day and came together as a unit. We are young, but when we are focused and Gillock is on the bump – we can compete."

Casey County used a six-run sixth inning to pull away from Cordia securing the 11-4 win and earning a spot in the fifth place game against Bullitt Central.

On Friday morning, the Rebels came out swinging in their final game of the spring break trip, and jumped to an early 6-0 lead in the first inning, but the boys from Shepherdsville didn't want to end their trip on a loss without a fight.

"We let them inch back into the game," Hammond said about the early lead in the first place game. "We were getting stretched thin on pitching, and had to pitch by committee."

All tied up in the bottom of the sixth, Isaiah Spears picked up a one-out single followed by Gillock earning a trip to first via a walk.

Cade Reed laid down a sacrifice bunt to advance the runners. Matt Sharp then stepped to the dish with Spears 90 feet away. Sharp plated the go ahead run and one for good measure when he ripped a double into deep right-center field.

Sharp swooped in for the last inning and a third to shut down and finish off Bullitt Central for his first win of the season from the mound. The Rebels took fifth place at the Panama City Beach Bash with the 8-6 win.

"We came out swinging the bats," Hammond said. "We got a bit too comfortable and relaxed. We put the game in Matt Sharp's hands with two outs. He came through, and then he closed it out on the mound."

The Rebels finished the Spring Break swing 2-2 with one loss coming to event champion, Florida's own Arnold High School which has an enrollment of 1,700.

As for the rain-shortened district game at Somerset on Monday night, mental mistakes proved costly.

"We started the game in the rain," said Hammond. "Nick Goode did a good job of hitting his spots from the mound despite the wet conditions. We hurt ourselves by making errors. We took ourselves out of the ballgame."

It was a one-run game at one point in the third inning, but three Casey County errors turned into three Somerset unearned runs. The Briar Jumpers ended up with seven runs on the board in the five innings completed, but only three hits.

"We handed the game to them," Hammonds said. "We can compete for this district despite our youth, but to do so we cannot have those types of mistakes."

At 6 p.m. on Thursday the Rebels got another shot at Somerset, this time at home followed by the Wooden Bat Classic over the weekend at Central Hardin where Casey County will face Mercer County on Friday then Central Hardin and Campbellsville on Saturday. The Rebels are now 4-10 this season.

Lady Rebels turn in first multi-run game of the season

By Quincy Burt
Sports Correspondent

Another game was cancelled due to weather conditions, but the week did yield a big "first" for the Casey County softball season — Coach Ashley Shugars' young Lady Rebels plated more than one run.

"Overall, I'm pleased with our performance tonight," Shugars said. "They worked hard tonight. It rained the entire game and they kept pushing through. We had the opportunity to win, but we are growing. We competed tonight."

Shugars' squad scored seven runs by cranking out nine hits without putting a run on the board before the third inning. It wouldn't be enough as Clinton County ruined the Lady Rebels' best offensive output of the season by outlasting Casey County 10-7.

"We left 10 on base tonight," said Shugars. "We had opportunities to score. Defensively, we did better. We only had a few fielding errors. There is a lot of improvement, there are still some small things that we can fix."

Lauren Wethington banged out a pair of extra base hits including a laser into right field for a RBI triple while Lois Blankenship went 3-for-5 with three singles and a RBI of her own.

Jessica Richardson smacked a double to center in the fifth, and Lashaya Carman picked up a double in the sixth inning. Lauren Lee and Haley Price also picked up singles for the Lady Rebels.

"I'm proud of them," Shugars added. "Our pitcher is young and she's coming along with her technique. We need her to keep throwing strikes and let the field work. We need to cut down on giving them extra bases by not hitting cuts."

Before the near miss versus Clinton County, the Lady Rebels dropped their district opener at Somerset 16-0.

"We were making contact with the ball, but we hit it straight at Somerset defenders," Shugars said. "On defense we had opportunities to get out of innings, but untimely mistakes allowed them to score and get runs with two outs."

Despite the varsity loss to Somerset, the JV squad picked up their first win of the season prodded by a great double play at short stop by Myla Jo McGowan.

"I am hoping that energy and enthusiasm will carry over into the varsity," Shugars stated last Tuesday after the JV team beat Somerset.

That momentum led to seven runs for the varsity against Clinton County, but not a "W," and now the Lady Rebels sit at 0-and-6 heading down a road of tough district tilts on the upcoming schedule.

Somerset comes calling at 6 p.m. Thursday and then Casey County will take on non-district foe McCreary Central in the Sports Den Round Robin on Saturday morning at Wayne County.

Lady Rebs pick up win after long layoff

By Marvetta Overstreet
Girls Tennis Coach

The Casey County Lady Rebels Tennis team traveled to Mercer County to take on the Lady Titans in a 5-point match, consisting of 3 singles and 2 doubles. The Lady Rebels triumphed, winning 3-2.

The Lady Rebels gained 3 points for the match win with victories from both doubles teams and from the number 2 singles.

At number one doubles, Madison Lee and Taylor Monday played very solid tennis to win over Mercer's number one duo, 6-3, 6-4.

Lee and Monday produced good quality teamwork to maintain control of their match.

"I like to see the way Lee and Monday work together to produce winning shots. In this second season playing together as a doubles team, Lee and Monday continue to gain confidence from their experience and their excellent tennis skills."

The number two doubles combination of Laci Lee and Sarah Harne played extremely well to hold their opponents to only 4 games in their 6-3, 6-1 win, securing a second victory point for the Lady Rebels. Together for the first season, Lee and Harne continue to gain experience that will help them be leaders in regional play.

Chelsey Lynn, at number 2 singles, gained a 3-set victory over Mercer's Samantha Green. Steady play and experience were key factors in the match that ended with Lynn's 10-6 win in the super tiebreak. Chelsey kept returning the ball with pace, drawing her opponent back and forth, side to side to force her into errors that produced the win for Casey.

"I'm extremely proud of the transition that Chelsey has made from a doubles specialist to an excellent singles player."

Amber Pierce played very well at number one singles against another tough regional opponent in Mercer's Kyleigh Murray. In this match, Murray's experience prevailed as Mercer secured the win at 6-0, 6-2.

Kristen Hogue stepped into the number 3 singles position against a more-experienced Mercer player, dropping both sets played. Kristen will continue to gain experience;

"I'm proud of the effort and skill she shows as a first-year player."

The Lady Rebels now stand at 7-0 in the season.

"It has been a tough season because weather has limited our play so much. It was good for the girls to get back onto the courts playing a team that has often been a significant rival and getting the team win."

Individual scores: Singles

1. Kyleigh Murray (MC) def. Amber Pierce (CC) 6-0, 6-2
2. Chelsey Lynn (CC) def. Samantha Green (MC) 5-7, 6-1, 1-0 (10-6)
3. Emmy Souder (MC) def. Kristen Hogue (CC) 6-1, 6-1

Doubles

1. Madison Lee/Taylor Monday (CC) def. Alli Long/Kennedy Thompson (MC) 6-3, 6-4
2. Laci Lee/Sarah Harne (CC) def. Avery Thompson/Hannah Ingram (MC) 6-3, 6-1

SPORTS TALK When it's more than a game

There are a lot of story lines from the college basketball season, and we could spend the entire off season talking about what went down in Division One, some even talk about D-2, but the story of the year that went beyond the hardwood came out of NCAA D-3 basketball.

If you aren't from Ohio or Indiana, you might not have known about a freshman from Lawrenceburg, Ind. who went to play for the Mt. Saint Joseph Lady Lions in Cincinnati. That freshman was Lauren Hill.

She was finishing up her senior year of high school, playing ball, and looking forward to her next chapter when she started getting dizzy spells. After tests, doctors told Lauren and her family that it was an inoperable brain tumor, and that she wouldn't have much time left. The only treatment was steroids, and some pain killers to give her more time.

Quincy Burt Sports Correspondent

Lauren decided she wanted to go to college anyway, and she wanted to play. There weren't any doctors who gave her any hope to survive long enough to be at the season opener, let alone get into the game due to her debilitating condition.

The NCAA and Xavier University got together and moved up an early season game to make sure the courageous Lauren would get to live out her dream. Social media began to buzz, and ESPN made sure the world could see this young lady show us what strength and determination looked like.

Off the tip, the ball was worked around to Lauren and Xavier kindly made a path to the basket. Lauren Hill put in the most inspirational left-handed layup most of us has ever seen, and scored the first points of the 2014-15 college basketball season.

Oh yeah, she is right handed, but due to how the cancer had begun to affect her body – she didn't have the strength to get the ball to the goal with her dominant hand regularly. Lauren found a way to score anyway.

She defied the odds and actually played in four early-season games, and finished with 10 career points before her body was too weak for the rigors of ball. So, Mt. Saint Joseph moved her to assistant coach. Doctors didn't give her much hope to see the start of the season, let alone see the whole season unfold and actually play.

While Lauren never wanted anything for herself other than the chance to live out her dream of playing college basketball, she quickly realized that her journey was no longer about that one shot, one game, or even basketball at all – it was about showing the strength of the human spirit.

Lauren found a way, fought her way, into the hearts of anyone who came across her story. She had every reason to beg off of the carnival ride as her condition worsened, but Lauren decided to use the precious time she had left to help others. She used her new-found fame to raise money through a nonprofit organization for pediatric cancer research, and brought in $1.5 million.

Late last week, Lauren couldn't fight anymore – she didn't lose, she simply ran out of time. Her uniform number 22 will be used as a rally cry, her courageous fight will always be an inspiration, and her life transcended beyond the game.

Track team brings home the championship trophy

By Jon Vaughn
Track Coach

The Casey County Girl's Varsity Track Team earned a Class 2A Championship trophy at Saturday's Clash of the Classes Championships in Bardstown.

The girls and boys teams competed against various schools from three different track classes (A, AA, and AAA). The weather was awesome and it gave the teams a chance to compete against some great competition, including some returning state champions from last year.

Girls

The girl's team continues to improve and brought home 19 medals. For the second meet in a row, every girl that competed earned at least one medal and scored in individual and/or relays.

The medals were given for overall competition against all classes at the meet.

Earning gold medals for first place were eighth graders Brenna Hayes and Jenna Vaughn.

"Brenna threw the shot put almost a foot and a half farther than her best to pull ahead all of the other varsity competition. Needless to say, she was ecstatic about her throw as was throwing Coach Rex Rader."

Jenna's first place came in the 1600 meter run in which she pulled ahead of the competition after 400 meters and never looked back.

"This is Jenna's first big win in a large varsity invitational. She was also very happy to almost equal her personal best in the mile."

Receiving silver medals against all classes were senior Tiara Cochran in the 300 meter hurdles, junior Allison Dallman in the high jump, and Jenna Vaughn in the 800 meter run.

Also earning a silver medal was the 4x400 team of seniors Lakken Miller and Tiara Cochran and eighth graders Chelsea Elmore and Jenna Vaughn.

Bronze medals were awarded to eighth grader Breanna Davison in the 3200 meter race and Lakken Miller in the high jump.

Fourth place overall medals were awarded to Tiara Cochran in the 100 meter hurdles and Brenna Hayes in the discus.

Fifth through eighth place overall medals and scoring included the 4x800 relay team of Tiara Cochran, junior Evelyn Moore, Jenna Vaughn, and eighth grader Laura Cuin, the personal best 400 meter performance by Chelsea Elmore, Chelsea's 200 meter race, Lakken Miller's season best 400 meter race, Allison Dallman's 100 meter race, Evelyn Moore's 800 meter race, and Alyssa Sharp's 3200 meter race.

Also scoring and receiving medals was the 4x100 meter relay team of Allison Dallman, and juniors Jenna Carman, Haley Lynn, and Hannah Lynn.

Also, the 4x200 meter relay where Jenna Carman, Haley Lynn, and Hannah Lynn were joined by Lakken Miller to be a part of the medal winning teams.

"The girls keep getting better for one reason, they keep working hard and they take care of business in their individual events while still believing they can obtain championships as a team."

Boys

The boy's competition was just as tough as the girls in Saturday's Clash of the Classes.

Throwing well was sophomore Noah Laman in the shot put and discus.

Freshman Noah Brown ran the mile, but then had to sit out the rest of the meet to nurse a hip injury.

"He wanted to run the 800 meter race, his favorite, but we told him no. We want to make sure he lets it heal and can be well for the last part of the season."

Also competing well was freshman Garret Bishop, Darren Ray, and Brandon Banks.

In addition, seventh grader Reece Brown and eighth grader Kip Turner had good times. Brandon Banks and Kip Turner stepped up for the team and ran in the 3200 meter race (the two mile).

The girl's and boy's track teams will be going to the Southwestern Allcomer's this Tuesday night before competing in their next Invitational next Saturday at the Heart of the Bluegrass Invitational.

LES fifth grader wins essay contest

Ashlee McDaniel, a fifth grader from Liberty Elementary School, was recognized at the March 2 meeting of the Casey County Retired Teachers Association as winner of the 2014-15 Grandparent of the Year essay contest sponsored by AARP of Kentucky and the Kentucky Retired Teachers Association (KRTA).

As county winner, Ashlee received a certificate for her efforts, along with $25, presented by CCRTA president, Tishana Cundiff.

Ashlee and her special guests, which included her "Grandpa," Ernie Burge, grandmother, Mickey Burge, mother, Michelle Maupin, stepfather, Jamey Maupin, and teacher, Heather Gordan, were honored at a lunch at Bread of Life Café.

Her essay, "My Grandpa Ernie," was advanced to the district level of competition.

Ashlee is among the thousands of Kentucky fifth graders who participated in the 14th annual essay competition answering the question why, "My Grandparent Should Be the AARP Kentucky Grandparent of the Year."

Gordan, submitted Ashlee's essay after it was selected at the school level. Other school level winners were Karlie Hundley from Jones Park Elementary who wrote "My Mama" about her grandmother, and Jamie Coffman from

Walnut Hill Elementary who wrote, "My Grandma, Lorene Hall."

The Mid-Cumberland Retired Teachers Association district winner has not yet been announced.

Early Childhood Council giving away free books

Young children are the future of our communities, and there are many ways that Casey County can come together for children. April 13-17 is "Week of the Young Child™," a time when we can reach out in our communities to help young children.

Take some time to support early literacy initiatives, thank teachers who work with our children, and work toward public policies that benefit all young children.

The Early Childhood

Council will be giving away free books at the Casey County Public Library today (April 15) from 10-11:30 a.m.

Jones Park Elementary will have Born Learning Academy on Thursday, April 16. Call the school to register for the academies. Child care centers will also be hosting a Family Engagement Night during the week.

For more information, call Barry Lee at 606-787-6941 or Jennifer Godbey at 606-787-7985.

CCRTA hosting biometric screening on April 23

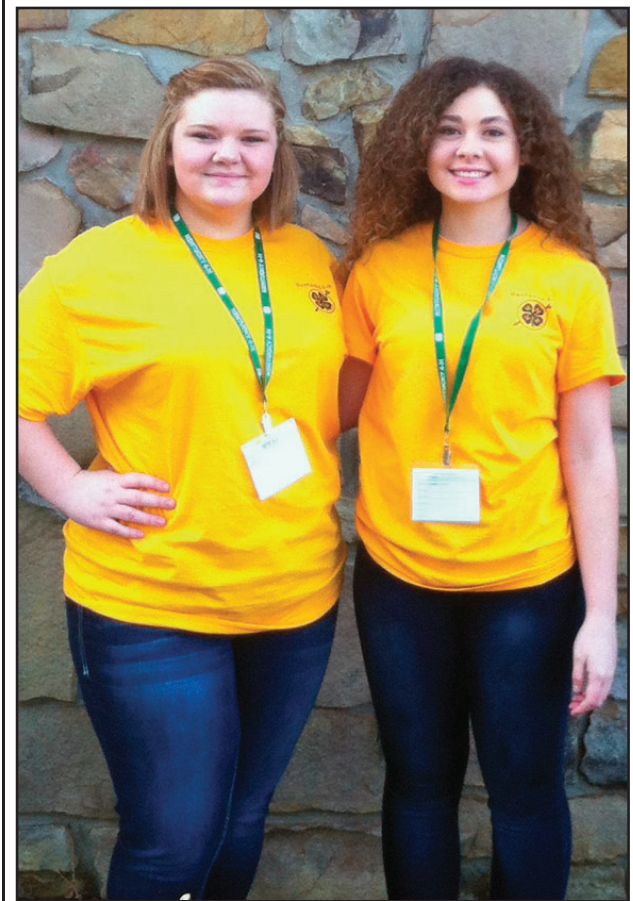

Casey County Retired Teachers Association will host a free Living Well Biometric Screening event open to all retired teachers on Thursday, April 23 at the Casey County Public Library community room from 8:15-11:30 a.m.

Participant must be fasting for the blood testing included in the screening. This screening fulfills the Living Well Promise commitment required of those who selected insurance plans requiring such.

Appointments are necessary and are being made at 15 minute intervals. Contact Tishana Cundiff at 606-303-1132 or tishana333@yahoo.com to schedule.

This event must have a minimum of 10 participants in order to be conducted.

Two attend 4-H conference

Olivia Pittman and Presley Woodrum, members of the Casey County 4-H Teen Club, District 5 4-H Teen Council, and Kentucky 4-H Teen Council, attended the 2015 4-H Summit Conference at the Lake Cumberland 4-H Leadership Center March 19-21. The two led leadership workshops and other fun activities for sixth, seventh, and eighth grade students in attendance.

NOTICE

There will be a special election for Walnut Hill SBDM Council parent member to fill a vacancy for the remainder of the 2014/2015 school year. Nominations will be taken during the school day on Thursday, April 16, 2015. Ballots will be available at the school. The election will be Friday, April 17, 2015. The results will be announced at 3:00 p.m. on Friday, April 17, 2015. A parent is defined as a parent, step-parent, foster parent, or legal guardian of a child enrolled at Walnut Hill.

TV personality visits LES

Tim Farmer, award winning TV show host and outdoorsman in Kentucky, made a surprise visit to Liberty Elementary School on April 8. Farmer spoke with students about the challenges in his life and how he overcame them. Farmer, who lost most of his right arm in a motorcycle accident, impressed the crowd of students and teachers when he pulled back a bow with his teeth and shot an arrow into the center of a target.

National Service Recognition Day

Casey County Judge-Executive Randy Dial and Mayor Steven Brown recently signed a proclamation recognizing April 7 as National Service Recognition Day. The day is an effort to recognize the positive impact of national services in counties, to thank those who serve, and to encourage citizens to give back to their community. From left are Heather Musinski, State FRYSC Corps, Dial, Ashley Custer, Ashley Godbey, Jennifer Hamilton, Jenny Wesley (all FRYSC Corps members), and Brown. Absent from photo was Kevin Long, Americorp member.

Home to the former A&D Supermarket.

"Last year I fell on that sidewalk and a couple of weeks later, city employees came and completely demolished the sidewalk. And, it's still that way," she said.

Brown said that he's seeking a bid on repairing that portion of the sidewalk and it should be completed soon.

Water leaks policy

The council also discussed a policy by which customers can appeal an excessive water bill due to a leak.

Brown said that he couldn't find a policy on file at City Hall outlining how much forgiveness would be extended in the event of a water leak.

Councilman Jim Worley said that when he had high water bill due to a leak on his property because of a frozen meter, the city took his past six months bills and averaged them to determine his water usage. He paid that amount and was forgiven the rest.

The council directed City Attorney G. Davis Wilson to draft a policy on water leaks that the council will consider during the May meeting.

Floods hit the county

Rain which began Monday night and continued into Tuesday caused flooding problems all over the county, causing schools to be let out at 9 a.m. Tuesday. In Middleburg, two people can be seen wading in the high waters. This photo was taken from Middleburg Baptist Church looking toward the mill dam and river located on Ky. 198. According to East Casey County Fire Chief Robby Murphy, the teenage girls playing in the water had to be rescued twice.

Clark's

ferently from others in similar circumstances who've had the post-mortem exam from a statutorily qualified coroner, which they claim Clark was not.

In seeking to have the suit dismissed, Clark's attorneys maintain that he is afforded sovereign immunity as to their state law claims.

Kentucky law — KRS 72.470 — states that "any coroner, deputy coroner, or designee thereof, acting in good faith within the scope of his official duties, shall have immunity from any civil liability that might otherwise be incurred or imposed."

Further, based on a previous court decision, Clark's attorneys argue that the Skippers' claims have no legal merit since they occurred after their mother's death.

"After death, one is no longer a person within our constitutional and statutory framework, and has no rights of which he may be deprived," a 1979 court ruling stated.

POLICE NEWS
